A considerable discussion has been gotten up by the press of the State upon the subject of the "Negro as a Farmer" in consequence of an editorial of the News and Courier to which exception is taken. The truth is the increased prosperity of the country is not owing to either race separately, but to the superior energy, enterprise and economy of the whole people induced by necessity.

In regard to the President's health at the time he was wounded the publie has erred in supposing that he was physically in first-rate condition. On the contrary, it was quite bad. A panic was also got ten up on the subject of prohibition which had its effect. The party ques tion was ignored although every effort was made, on the one side, to keep it prominently forward. The Lien Law.

The Lancaster Ledger thus speaks on the above subject in connection also with the Fence and Prohibition excitements:

"This is the most important and perplexing question that our legislators will have to deal with at the ensuing session. The prohibition and fence questions sink into insignificance beside it. South Carolina to day has the best liquor law of any State in the Union-the State of Maine not excepted. Under the provisions of the present law the sale of all intoxicating drinks is confined to cities, incorporated towns and villages, and is optionary with the citizens of such places to permit its sale. The question of fencing the stock should, and no doubt will remain a ocal issue. Hence, our law makers will in their wisdom go slow upon these two issues.

But, upon the repeal of the lien law there is a diversity of opinion. Recently the State Grange, and the State Agricultural and Mechanical Society, held a joint meeting at Greenville. The sentiment express-ed at this uteeting was for the im-mediate repeal of the lien law. These two Societies are composed of men of wealth, principally land owners, and consequently never experienced the pinching necessities of the small farmers. One year ago we were in favor of the repeal of the lien law, but the present condition of the country will not warrant it."

The Commission appointed by the Legislature to suggest changes to the Constitution have finished their labors and are ready to present their report. The majority of the Commission oppose the calling of a State Convention for altering the Constitu-tion, but prefer the means which "the Constitution itself provides for its own amendment, which is simple, inexpensive, easily understood, and which can obtain a full expression of the opinion of the people thereon, and at the same time guard against teude, hasty and impatient legisla itin.

The following are the suggestions, or proposed alterations, which will be submitted to the Legislature and hen to the people for ratification or Fist; that the Judges be elected to serve during good behavior. This we think will be a great improvement on the present system. The idea of a Judge condescending at every recurring election to court the favor of the people in order that hemay continue in his office, is contrary to every principle of the administration of justice. It is a terrible thought for a Judge to become a wire-puller and intriguer in order to retain or secure his position. If there is any public official who ought to be untrammeled and free from every influence it is the Judge. The making of his term for life or during good behavior will lift him above such influences and enable him to dispense justice with an even hand. The suggestion of the Commission on this head is a good one and we hope and believe will be adopted.

Second; that among the crimes which disfranchise a voter, "burglary" should be substituted for "robbery," and that larceny, perjury and forgery should be added. We also commend this alteration, and every thing that protects the virtuous against the vicious of society.

Third; that the Governor and all the State officers, and Senators and members of the House of Representatives should be elected for four instead of two years. This provision we also think a good one as it will save us from such frequent elections which tend so much to distract the Fourth; that County School Commissioners be appointed by the State Board of Education instead of elect ed by the people. The object of this is doubtless to secure greater intelligence and adaptability to the responsibilities of this important office. In counties where incompetent men are elected, and especially in Radical counties, this will be an improve

Other suggestions have been made by the Commission which we will not touch upon at this time. Upon the whole, we regard the recommendations as good. We are only surprised that nothing has been done looking to the perpetuation of good government which the people expected but we will only hope for the best.
